In historic first, senior British royal said to be planning official trip to Israel